

2nd haibun /

i used to play with my sister in a small space. i was tiny. she was the feisty one. but she would teach me to hold my own. then one day i left her. i don't even remember her any more. i left her and was moved to a much bigger place. there were two large animals in this place. i was scared at first, but these two animals spent a lot of time with me. i was comfortable and this new place was fun. we would play, i had comfortable places to sleep, i had a clean place to pee and poo, and there was always food. what was this place? i used to get scared of noises that i could not see. i am still uneasy about them, but i am more comfortable with it all. i know that even though i cannot see them, they are not going to harm me. during the day i sleep in the sun and watch other animals moving around out the window. i like to sleep in my chair too. it's very comfortable. when it gets dark i often sleep with the other animals because its quite cold and i am pretty small. but i also play at night. i walk all the places and make sure everything is where it should be. I need to check on these things at night or when the other animals are not around because they make sharp noises with their mouths and paws. i also sleep quite a bit when it gets dark. i think this is the time i would probably kill things to eat, but there aren't any things to kill around and i always seem to have food around. instead i hang out. sleep. and get scratches. the other animals give good head and back rubs. it usually puts me to sleep. i am not quite sure what all of this is, or where i am, but i am comfortable and safe and it's not so bad.

bi-color lousie
tuxedo domesticate
they called her connie
but at first we called her cat
now we ask her "who's a cat?"